

Good morning church! What a great day to be in God's house with God's people!

Today I am in southeast Missouri preaching a wedding for the son of a long-time friend. Pastor Nathan will preach the Word. Jack Belcher will lead our music. We are blessed to have two young men who love Jesus leading us in worship this morning. Before you leave, encourage them. If you watch online, drop them a note and tell them you appreciate them!

I want to remind you that in a few weeks, our Community Outreach Team will start. If you would like to be part of that, let me know at mike@westhavenbaptist.org. The deadline will be next Sunday. Then we will have a kickoff meeting to get started. The goal is to bless our community with unconditional love and generosity. Jesus told us to "love our neighbor" and that's exactly what we are going to do. I am excited about this group.

As the COVID-19 situation drags on, let's remember to practice personal evangelism. More than ever, people are frustrated. Hope is diminished. We are the people of hope. Be bold to share that hope through our Lord Jesus.

Pray for revival. Prepare for revival. I've been reading the biography of Martyn Lloyd-Jones. He wrote a book on revival that is fantastic. His view was that the ordinary work of the church should never be interrupted to pray for revival. Stephen Olford believed we must pray for revival. I don't know where Jonathan Edwards stood on the subject but I know this: all three men agreed that mankind always needs revival.

Our land reeks of spiritual death, even churches. Pastors and people are spiritually cold. I believe we should pray for revival. But I also believe we should order our lives as if revival was coming tomorrow. As Olford used to say (paraphrase) "we can't bring revival. Only a sovereign God can do that. But we can set our sails to catch the wind of revival when the Spirit moves."
